The Golden era, during which prosperity and peace, as envisioned by humanity, prevailed on Earth. The Duchy of Ferelden has maintained this age of prosperity for over ten years since the Duke Varian Wrynn left the throne to his heir, the Prince of Ferelden, Orlanthias. However, the enemies scattered in the distant land of the Suntar Empire have waged a war of conquest and a war of annihilation on the lands of Ferelden and the people of Ferelden. They desire to overwhelm our people by the immediate use of modern weapons and the complete extinction of our race. They have already taken control of the Suntar Empire and the surrounding lands. Sex differences in substrates of glycolysis during embryogenesis of the rabbit. Livers, kidneys, hearts, and lung tissues were obtained at different days of gestation of New Zealand White rabbits. These tissues were used to determine the concentrations of glucose, fructose, lactate, pyruvate, glycogen, and ATP. Glycolytic rates were determined by measuring lactate accumulation, using tissue extracts at 3 min interval. The following observations were made: (1) At all days

studied, glycogen, the substrate of glycogenesis, accounted for a relatively constant proportion of the total amount of lactate produced during incubation; (2) At all the days studied, lactate was the major substrate, except for a relative increase in the amount of lactate in heart at E24; (3) At all the days studied, 3-phosphoglycerate was the predominant anion leaving the glycolytic pathway; (4) A significant increase in levels of pyruvate was seen at E19-E24. This increase was primarily in liver, heart, and lung.. 'Ziad effect' or mainly 'panax ginseng' effect? ** A recent RCT by Chen et al. ([@B4]) has shown that a 30-day dose of *Panax ginseng* significantly increases the treatment gain in thermoneutral heat intolerance subjects. However, previous studies have not shown any therapeutic benefit in healthy subjects from 12-week *Panax ginseng* intake in both hot and thermoneutral environments ([@B5]). However, it is not clear if the therapeutic benefit observed in thermoneutral environment was due to the pharmacological effects of ginseng or by the putative 'Ziad effect' (the subject is *per se* stressed due to thermoneutral environment). This is an important future research area, as it may indicate if daily low dose ginseng intake may be effective for prevention of fatigue in daily life, when the subjects are not in a heat stress environment. However, a pharmacological explanation does not clarify why subjects with cold intolerance benefit from daily ginseng intake in thermoneutral environment and not in heat stress environment. To address these questions, we measured cytokine and cortisol levels in plasma and hair samples in the original dataset of Chen et al. ([@B4]) and we report here the effects of *Panax ginseng* intake in different environment on biomarkers
